CANDIDATES FOR TOWN COUNCIL IN THE SECOND WARD WITHDRAW.

No Opposition There Now on the Republican Ticket for Nomination at the Primaries Tomorrow Afternoon.

CLYDE WHITELEY FOR AUDITOR.

Democrats Have Warm Scrap on for Council in the Second and Fourth Wards, While Contests for Justice of the Peace on Both Tickets is Lively.

There will be no opposition on the Republican ticket in the four wards of Connellville tomorrow except for Justice of the Peace. Last evening two candidates, Simon Hays and Thomas O. Evans, who had filed petitions for nomination on the Republican ticket for Town Council in the Second ward, withdrew, leaving Rev. J. J. Huston and W. W. Smith a clear field for the nomination. Evans' withdrawal is announced in the following card:

I wish to state to my many friends that I have decided to withdraw my name as a candidate for Council from the Second ward on the Republican ticket. Thanking my friends for their good wishes, I remain, Yours respectfully,
Thos. O. Evans.
Witness—Joseph McConnell.
Simon Hays announces his withdrawal as follows:

I wish to announce to my many friends that I have decided not to be a candidate for Council in the Second ward on the Republican ticket. Thanking my friends for their good wishes, I remain, Yours respectfully,
Thos. O. Evans.
Witness—Joseph McConnell.
Simon Hays announces his withdrawal as follows:

The withdrawal of these two simplifies matters in the Second, though there was no serious fight on there for the nomination. In the Fourth ward there are but two candidates for Council, D. K. Dilworth and James B. Millard. The Democrats have four candidates, D. F. Girard and F. O. Goodwin, who are running as candidates independent of the Democratic bosses in that ward, and Dr. James B. Woods and Worth Bailey, who are running as candidates for the Fourth ward and the voting will be pretty well split between the four Democratic candidates.

In the Second there is an army of Democratic candidates for Council. They are Thomas Drannan, Frank Friel, Nicholas Hove and Walter Adams, the latter two who are not living in Connellville. There are not many votes to go around with this army, but there will be a lively scramble for the ones who do venture out to the polls.

All three of the candidates for Justice of the Peace, Squire Frank Miller, J. B. Kurtz and John Neel, are making an active and energetic fight for the nomination. Whichever one lands it is pretty certain of election. There are two candidates for the office on the Democratic side, J. A. DeWitt and W. D. Colborn. Both are not long residents of the borough, but Mr. DeWitt being annexed from Connellville township a year or so ago.

Clyde Whiteley, bookkeeper at the Second National Bank, will be the Republican candidate and nominee for Auditor at tomorrow's primary. A vote can be cast for him by writing his name on the Republican ballot in the blank space left for that purpose.

The statement of the men whose names were forged to the Bridges petition for Auditor created a mild sensation in town yesterday. All of them were commented for the stand they took in repudiating the interview credited to one of their number by a local newspaper. That custom had become so commonly employed in Democratic politics in Connellville that no one was sane from an interview in which he was made to say just whatever suited the purpose of the Democratic managers. Yesterday's statement effectively spiked the published stories in a Democratic organ on Wednesday and no matter what turn they may give the matter today or how fiercely they may wriggle or squirm they will not be able to get away from the generally accepted fact that the master has been truthfully placed before the public by the men whose names were forged to the Bridges petition.

All the details in connection with the holding of the winter primary election have been completed and nothing remains to be done except to cast the ballots. The polls will be open in all the 36 districts of the country tomorrow afternoon between the hours of 2 and 8 o'clock and will be in charge of the regular election officers. All parties will vote together the same as the general election, and while the new arrangement will be somewhat novel to the old plan it will prove much more satisfactory than the loose methods that have been employed in Fayette county in the past. In most of the districts both the Republican and Democratic parties have full tickets in the field, while in many of the more important places the prohibitionists also have a full list of candidates. Brownsville township is the only district in the county where none of the parties responded to the new requirements. Acting on the advice of the county solicitor, the Commissioners had blank ballots prepared for this place so in case the voters should care to support any particular person for office they have the opportunity. In case the prohibitionists or any other political party failed to nominate the new way they will also be furnished with the blank ballots.

THE LATEST CRIMINAL SCANDAL.

EVELYN IS IGNORED.

Neither Harry Thaw Nor His Mother Notice Former Chorus Girl.

SHE SHOWS SIGNS OF STRAIN.

Presents Pathetic Figure in New York Court Room This Morning but Thaw Shows No Sympathy—Price of Has Pleasant Greeting for Mother.

NEW YORK, Jan. 25.—Mrs. William Thaw, whose illness prevented her attendance in court yesterday, was not present this morning accompanied by Mrs. Geo. L. Carnegie, her daughter and her two sons, Edward and Joseph Thaw. The mother did not appear to notice the child figure of her son's wife. Evelyn looked so pathetically at the motherly woman in seeming mute appeal for some slight greeting, but there was none. Mrs. Carnegie was quite oblivious to the presence of her sister-in-law. The Countess of Yarmouth did not appear this morning. Evelyn Thaw, with her sister, was seated in the front row of the gallery. She presented a pathetic figure, broken and crushed under the weight of apprehension. Following an interminable roll call of talesmen an elderly prisoner, William Younger indicted for robbery, was assigned to plead, thus causing a delay in the progress of the Thaw trial. The old man pleaded not guilty. Thaw watched the proceedings with interest.

"Harry K. Thaw to the bar," cried the clerk and the prisoner, with smart slides, marched to his seat. With evident delight at seeing his mother, he stopped to reach over and take her outstretched hand and give a kindly word of greeting. Harry did not seem to see his wife as she fondly smiled at him and as he turned away the eyes of the fragile figure following his every move as he took a seat and spoke to his lawyers.

At 12:35 o'clock Howard R. Thayer, a printer, was sworn in as the sixth juror. Every indication in the courtroom is that possibly another appeal panel of talesmen will have to be called before a jury can be selected to try Thaw. The grind of sitting the present panel continued until long after the noon hour before there was a break in the monotony.

The frailty between Evelyn Thaw and her husband's people was markedly today than ever before. It is possible there is nothing back of the lack of cordiality between the young wife and the Thaws but the general opinion is to the contrary. Thaw seems improving in spirits and in a measure is cheerful.

CLEANING PAVEMENTS.

Coppers Get Busy Among Business Men of Downtown Section—Effect is Noticeable.

The coppers are busy today serving notices on business men of the downtown district to clean their pavements and as a consequence a small army turned out this morning, scraping the ice and snow away. As a consequence of the sudden change in the weather overnight the streets and pavements were in bad shape this morning. Chief of Police DeTemple had his men surrounding the public grounds were in worse shape than any others in town and there was but one broken shovel to work with. A street sweeper was made to have Street Commissioner Joseph Halliday do the work, but he was busy elsewhere. The cops turned out and took about a peck of salt on the ice.

BUY COOKING COAL.

The Northern Connellville Coke Company, composed of Fayette and Westmoreland county men, has purchased 18 acres of coking coal which lies about two miles south of Greensburg. Steps will be taken at once to develop this tract. A bank of 10 ovens will be built to coke the coal. This coal will be mined by a day, there being but 15 feet of surface at the opening. There is stone on the site to be used in the ovens. The price paid was $15,000 an acre.

Among those interested in the project are C. W. Campbell and James W. Buttermore of Connellville, Charles and Wade Bellard of Uniontown and Judge L. W. Dwyer and Judge Hunter of Greensburg.

STREET IN BAD SHAPE.

Recent Rains Cause Big Sink in Fairview Avenue.

A NARROW ESCAPE.

Sled Carries Two Little Girls Beneath Cab on Pittsburgh Street.

NEITHER SERIOUSLY HURT.

Wheels Passed Over Leg of Irene Vandergift, but Emma Lou Ash, Who Went Under the Vehicle, Was Uninjured—Caused Much Excitement.

Dozens of people on South Pittsburgh street this afternoon in the vicinity of the Wyman Hotel, were horror stricken at seeing a bobbed, carrying two little girls, fly directly beneath a cab driven by John Eaton. On the sled were Irene Vandergift and Emma Lou Ash. Two of the wheels passed over the Vandergift child's leg and her foot was trampled by one of the horses, but the Ash girl, who landed directly under the cab, was unharmed. For a time it appeared that both girls would be seriously injured, but neither is suffering from the effects of the experience except the Vandergift girl, who is nursing a sore limb. Among the first to aid the children was H. L. Sedco, who conducted a meat market nearby. He carried Miss Vandergift girl into her home in the Strand building. The Vandergift girl is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Vandergift. Mrs. Elizabeth Ash of Church place is mother of the other child.

overcoming the little one. Dr. Hall of this place was summoned immediately, but when he reached the home he found his services were of no avail. MALTAS BANQUET.

The Uniform Rank Was Entertained Last Evening by J. E. Lewis at His Home.

The Uniform Rank, Knights of the Malta, were splendidly entertained by J. E. Lewis, Superintendent of the Silgo Iron & Steel mill, at his home, corner of Highland and Gibson avenues, last night. Mr. Lewis, assisted by his wife, arranged the social gathering with the intention of promoting a closer relationship among the members of the rank, and that it was most successful all will testify. Upon the arrival of the guests Mr. Lewis escorted them to the mill, where they were given opportunity to see the working of the big plant. They watched the course of the metal from the time it left the puddlers until it was turned out a finished product.

Returning to the Lewis home a few remarks were made by all the guests, and some very good ideas were brought forth in regard to the welfare of the order. The house was lavishly decorated in red and white, emblems of the order, and potted plants and cut flowers. The supper was served by Mrs. Lewis, assisted by Mrs. T. H. Edwards. It was a remarkably good affair and ample justice was done to it. T. J. Edwards was chosen toastmaster and some more splendid words were indulged in. Misses Gwendolyn Richter, Cora Kane and Margaret Lewis added to the pleasure of the evening by rendering some musical selections.

Among those who had the pleasure of participating in the pleasant affair were: T. H. Edwards, Harry Rodgers, W. C. Downing, D. T. Thelmann, Charles Metzger, Thomas R. Cunningham, W. L. SIMILAR SUIT ENTERED BEFORE

But it Was Not Brought to a Conclusion Authorities Here Agreeing to Put Thoroughfare in Better Shape Which They Have Neglected to Do it is Alleged.

Francis avenue has gotten the borough into another lawsuit. Papers were filed this morning in the Prothonotary's office at Uniontown in which the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania brings action against the borough of Connellville for maintaining a common nuisance. It is stated in the papers filed that the action is taken upon information made by Wade H. Marietta of Connellville, who alleges that Francis avenue from the intersection of Pittsburgh street to the intersection of Eighth street is cut up by ditches and holes, and that the accumulations upon the street have made it unfit for common ordinary uses, and that it is unsafe and dangerous. He further alleges that it is a detriment to the State of Pennsylvania and the residents of the borough of Connellville particularly. The case was brought before Magistrate John N. Dawson and the papers were turned over to Constable Charles Wilson. All the officials are commanded to appear in court at the March session to answer the charges made against the borough. The papers in the case bear evidence of having been prepared by an attorney. The bad condition of Francis avenue was brought to the court's attention in a previous action brought by residents along the street, and although no opinion has ever been rendered in the case by the court, it was understood that the borough officials of the town had been directed to place the street in better condition.

BAD FOREIGNERS

Prosecuted for Raising Trouble on West Penn Car While Returning From a Funeral.

Andy Puslican, Steve Crafco, Mike Boosak and George Shostak of Hecla were the defendants in a disorderly conduct case held Thursday afternoon before Squire McMillan at Mt. Pleasant. The charge was preferred by Constable Frank McLaughlin, special officer for the West Penn Railways Company. On returning home from a funeral Monday evening the defendants, who were under the influence of liquor, became very boisterous and unruly on the car, causing Conductor Francis to put one of their party off, which greatly aroused the anger of the men. Had it not been for Motorman Blaney, who came to the rescue of Conductor Francis, the defendants would have had doubt handled Francis roughly.

The men were given a severe lecture by Squire McMillan and paid the costs which amounted to $22.70. The arrests were made by Officers Thompson and Ellis of Mt. Pleasant, assisted by Constable Frank McLaughlin of Dunbar township.

Triennial Assessment Shows That It Is the Third Largest

The triennial assessment for the year of 1907 has been completed and the figures prepared for publication by the County Commissioners. The total for the 41 boroughs and the 23 townships in the county is $115,986,235, a gain of $36,146,316.

Latrobe comes under the wire second with a valuation of $4,476,000, while Monessen is third with $4,218,932. TO ABOLISH 18 OFFICES

House Votes to Do Away With Branch Pension Agencies.

Washington, Jan. 25.—The house voted to abolish all the pension agencies throughout the country, 18 in number, and centralize the payment of pensions in the city of Washington. This action was taken on the pension appropriation bill after spirited opposition on the part of those having pension agencies in their states. By a vote of 18 to 114 an amendment offered by Mr. Dulzell of Pennsylvania, restoring the number of agencies to 18 as at present, was defeated and then an amendment offered by Mr. Gardner of Michigan consolidating all the agencies in one was adopted without division. The pension appropriation bill carrying $128,000,000 was passed.

A message from the president was read relative to insurance and at 2:30, out of respect to the memory of the late Senator Alger of Michigan, the house adjourned.

The house committee on military affairs has decided to make a favorable report on a bill permitting the wives of enlisted men to be buried in the same graves with their husbands in national cemeteries. HEARING BEGINS FEB. 4

Senate Military Committee to Examine Brownsville Witnesses.

Washington, Jan. 25.—Testimony concerning the affair at Brownsville, Texas, will be taken by the senate committee on military affairs beginning Feb. 4. The committee will sit in Washington. Subpoenas will be issued at once for commissioned and non-commissioned officers of the discharged 13th Cavalry and possibly for some of the enlisted men.

In view of the fact that the court martial of some of the men involved will be held in Texas on the same date the committee may find it necessary to examine a part of those men prior to Feb. 4, in which event an informal hearing would be had for this purpose.

It was determined that no counsel should be permitted to attend the hearings representing any of the parties interested. In order to expedite the taking of testimony, however, it was agreed that some members of the committee, probably Senator Forsaker, will conduct the case, insofar as it is a trial, on behalf of the enlisted men.

HIS CAREER NEARS ITS END

That is Impression in London About Gov. Swettenham.

London, Jan. 25.—The colonial office has received several telegrams from Sir Alexander Swettenham, the governor of Jamaica, explaining the incident with Rear Admiral Davis, but not one of such character that the authorities are prepared to give it to the public.

The foreign office says it has had no further communication from Washington and that with the receipt of President Roosevelt's telegram through Assistant Secretary of State Bacon, the international side of the question is regarded as settled. At the same time it is possible that when Gov. Swettenham's explanation is received in full there will be further communication with the government of the United States. The Associated Press gained the general impression that the government offices that Gov. Swettenham's career is at an end.

Foreign Secretary Grey has sent the following reply to Mr. Bacon through Esme Howard, the charge d'affaires of the British embassy at Washington: "Please express to the assistant secretary of state my thanks for his message. The friendly attitude of the president and the American government are warmly appreciated by his majesty's government."

HAVE YOU WEAK LUNGS.

Do You Fear Consumption? "When we take into consideration the fact that one out of every seven in this climate dies of consumption, is it any wonder that it is feared by the people of Connelville who have weak lungs and chronic colds and coughs?" said our local druggist, J. C. Moore.

"Physicians everywhere have recognized the value of cod liver oil for coughs, colds, bronchitis, consumption and all wasting diseases, but, unfortunately, few could take it and derive any benefit from its use on account of the indigestible oil which it contained. "We want every person in Connelville to know that Vinol actually contains a concentrated form of all of the body-building, strength creating elements of cod liver oil actually taken from fresh cod's livers, without a drop of oil to upset the stomach and retard its work, and tonic iron added."

Therefore, whenever you wish to cod liver oil or emulsion will do good. Vinol will do far more good. We guarantee Vinol will improve the appetite, strengthen digestion, make rich, red blood, create strength, cure chronic coughs and colds and strengthen weak lungs."

If Vinol fails to give satisfaction to our customers, we return money without question. F. B. Markell, Druggist, NOTE.—While we are sole agents for Vinol in Connelville, it is now for sale at the leading drug store in every town and city in the country. Look for the Vinol agency in your town.

If Our Shoes Could Talk

They couldn't extend a more pressing invitation to the feet than they do now. Their appearance make one feel that the feet will never be stylishly and comfortably shod until put in a pair of our shoes. While conforming to the shape of the foot they are absolutely correct in style, and there's more wear in these shoes than their appearance or their price would lead one to suppose.

Constable Takes Charge of the Goods of Westmoreland Club.

The Westmoreland Club has been closed by the Constable. The club has been in existence for a number of years and at one time many of the best known men in Westmoreland county belonged to it. Many people from Connelville have been entertained there at different times. During the last few years, however, the patronage of the club has not been near large enough to support it.

NEWS OF SCOTSDALE.

Funerals of James P. Beatty and Wm. E. Croft Thursday.

BOTH WERE LARGELY ATTENDED.

Few Voluntary Lodgers Have Appeared at the Borough Bastille During the Present Winter—Local and Personal Mention.

SCOTSDALE, Jan. 24.—At the funeral of James Perry Beatty Thursday forenoon, the services were in charge of Rev. William C. Weaver, pastor of the First M. E. Church, to which the young man belonged, and he was assisted by Rev. James B. Lyle, pastor of the Presbyterian Church, who had known him since childhood, when he joined church at the age of 10. The pall bearers were Harry Colborn, Ralph Walker and Clifford Hagerman, three of his fellow workers at the church, and John W. Stager, George H. Shupe and James F. Kasegy, members of the Sons of Veterans.

At the funeral of William E. Croft from the United Brethren Church, in the afternoon, the services were in charge of Rev. J. L. Leichter, pastor of the Owensdale United Brethren Church, with which he was an earnest worker, assisted by Rev. Edward C. Kunkle, pastor of the First Baptist Church of Scottdale, and Rev. W. W. Williamson, pastor of the First United Brethren Church. The pall bearers were J. W. Singer, Perry Hill, Ora Mauk, Lemuel Koller, Ralph Stoner and John Mentzer, associates in the mill. In the two funerals the fact of each man being an exemplary and active Christian was much dwelt upon. Both were victims of the blowing out of a cylinder head of the engine at No. 1 plant of the American Sheet & Tin Plate Company on Monday evening, where Croft was engineer and Beatty a rougher.

Rockwell's New Sunny South is the attraction that will play here on Saturday evening at the Geyer Opera House. Twenty-five high class colored performers make up the company. Former District Attorney Jesse B. Cunningham, who recently completed two successive and successful terms in that office in Westmoreland county, will be down from Greensburg on Sunday afternoon to speak to the meeting at the Y. M. C. A. His subject will be "The Trial of Jesus from a Lawyer's Standpoint." Those who know this clear reasoner and fine speaker anticipate one of the best talks ever given here.

A traveler who said he was from McKeesport applied for lodging in the borough lockup on Thursday evening and was given a front room and the lower berth. There have been very few lodgers this year, except those that the police bring in forcibly. In fact there are fewer guests than in many years, and this is explained by the amount of work that is to be found everywhere, and that the professional vags are taking to other climes.

The Order of Patriotic Sons of America meet tonight in the borough building at 7:30 to complete the details of the work of instituting the lodge here.

The Grand Army band placed two immense new gas lights in their room in the borough building, replacing the chandeliers that have been used since the building was put up.

A number of the members of the Royal Arcanum will go to Dunbar this evening when W. L. Shaffer will install the officers of the lodge at that place.

This is the evening of the Bonhuzzi Kyri Company in the Y. M. C. A. entertainment at Geyer's Opera House. Mrs. G. Frank Kelly entertained Thursday afternoon at bridge, and will entertain at lunch this afternoon.

SUNDAY SCHOOL MATTERS.

Executive Committee of County Association Held Meeting Wednesday.

The Executive Committee of the Fayette County Sabbath School Association met Wednesday afternoon in the First M. E. Church of Uniontown and took action on several important matters. They adopted a standard of excellence for Fayette county which includes home department, class roll, separate room for primary department, teacher training class, and delegate at district and county conventions. It is likely that this standard of excellence will be printed on a large card and a copy given to each Sunday school in the county.

It was estimated that about $600 should be raised for the expenses of the State Convention to be held in Uniontown next October. It was felt that this sum could be easily raised. Among those present at the meeting were B. E. Forsythe, President of the County Association; Dr. J. D. Gold, Vice President; Rev. H. H. of Dunbar, Miss George Heywood, Ida Vail, of New Salem, and P. R. Wakefield.

GRANGERS SAY WHAT

They Meet in Harrisburg and Point Out Their Wants to Legislature.

OLD QUESTION OPENED AGAIN

Jefferson County Statemen introduce Bill to Permit Use of Harmless Coloring Matter in Butter Manufactured for Sale—Many Other Bills.

Harrisburg, Pa., Jan. 25.—The legislative committee of the state grange met here and after a lengthy discussion passed resolutions on the senate and house that they have well defined wishes in the matter of legislation to be enacted by the present legislature. They demand the granting to trolleys of the right to carry freight and the right of eminent domain, a passenger rate not exceeding two cents a mile, in townships where road tax is paid they insist that the 15 per cent paid by the state be increased to 50 per cent and that a permanent road fund be created by taxing all personal and corporate property, including manufacturing plants an increase of appropriation for public schools, as promised by the present governor, an investigation of the expense of building and furnishing the state capitol, and are unalterably opposed to the creation of the new offices and increase of salaries of old ones.

A bill providing for an appropriation of $75,000 to arrange for a Pennsylvania exhibit at the Seattle exposition in 1909 was introduced in the lower house. The bill also provides for a commission of 20 headed by the governor.

A lot of new legislation was dumped into the house of representatives during the short morning session. One of the most important of these was a bill making it legal to use harmless coloring matter in butter manufactured for sale. It was presented by Representative North of Jefferson county. It is a very brief measure but likely to create a great deal of discussion if it ever gets the light of day.

Representative Smith of Allegheny would abolish the fat office of boiler inspector of Allegheny county. This office is supposed to pay the incumbent from $15,000 to $20,000 a year. Mr. Smith has introduced a bill providing for the appointment of a state boiler inspector at a salary of $2,000 without fees. He has had 10 years practical experience in boiler making. He is authorized to appoint assistants at $4 a day and traveling expenses.

Each representative and senator will hereafter receive 300 instead of 75 copies of Smull's handbook, if a bill introduced by Representative Rosell of Lycoming is passed.

BERRY CANNOT SEE

Why State Should Pay 10 Times Its Worth for Mahogany Wainscoting.

Harrisburg, Jan. 25.—State Treasurer Berry claims to have discovered fresh evidence of overcharges in the capitol expenditures. He says in the items of mahogany wainscoting furnished by John H. Sanderson, there is an overcharge of over $700,000.

The treasurer's private office is wainscoted with mahogany 10 feet high. The room is 18 feet by 23 feet, and the surface covered is 800 square feet. Berry says the material used could not exceed 1,000 feet board measure, which, assuming it to be of the best quality, would cost $250.

"The mill work could not exceed $100," said the treasurer, "the labor of two joiners at $5 a day for 60 days each, $600 contingent expenses $50, or a total of $1,550. These figures include a fair profit to the subcontractor. Add for general contractors profit $500, giving $1,550 as a fair price for the work."

"Several experts in this line have estimated upon this particular piece of work, and none of them has placed a higher figure upon it than this. It is of no use for the state to pay more than $15,000 for this work, or 10 times its value. If we double this estimate the price is still five times too large. This price, $15,400 a foot, runs through the entire building and since a total of $838,940 was paid for this kind of work, there is an overcharge of more than $700,000."

Col. Moody Argues Question.

Indianapolis, Ind., Jan. 25.—Samuel Moody of Pittsburgh, first assistant general passenger agent of the Pennsylvania lines, appeared before the Indiana senate committee on transportation and made an argument on the two-cent rate bill pending in the assembly. Mr. Moody did not oppose the two-cent rate, but argued that there should be a difference in the rate paid for a ticket at the ticket office and a cash fare paid to the conductor on the train.

He suddenly disappeared from Youngstown and it is claimed took with him $700 belonging to John Moran, a farmer. Pellarelli will be taken to Youngstown.

NATURE'S CATARRH CURE.

Sensible and Scientific Way to Cure This Disagreeable Disease.

In no other way can catarrh be cured as naturally and quickly as by the use of Hyomel breathed through the nasal pocket inhaler that comes with every outfit.

In this way all the air that enters the nasal passages, the throat or the lungs, is filled with Hyomel's healing medication, reaching the most remote air cells of the respiratory organs and soothing and healing the irritated mucous membrane.

So strong is A. A. Clark's faith in the power of Hyomel to cure catarrh at trouble, that with every dollar out at he sells he gives a guarantee to refund the money unless it cures.

The complete Hyomel outfit costs but $1.00, extra bottles, if needed 50 cents.

Rheumatism Cannot be Cured Unless Uric-O is Used.

The Store of F. E. Mark II is the Home of Uric-O in Connellsville.

The Rheumatic person is kept ignorant of the cause of his trouble and remedy advertised as a cure for Rheumatism and on can see his blinding him for being so stupid. The cause of Rheumatism is not actually cured a case of Rheumatism. They may believe it in one quarter but it is sure to break out somewhere else. The only true way to cure Rheumatism is to drive it from the system. This is done as the Uric and Rheumatic Acid remains in the blood one is never entirely free from the trouble. This is where the value of Uric-O as a permanent cure for Rheumatism comes in. It drives out the Rheumatic poison in the blood muscles and kidneys, renders it inert and harmless and drives it out of the system. Thus is why Uric-O is such an admirable and effective cure for Rheumatism.

The chief reason that Uric-O is such a wonderful cure for Rheumatism is that it is designed and prepared to cure Rheumatism and Rheumatism only. It does not contain any alcohol or other so-called tonics to make one feel good for the time being but is composed of ingredients for the Rheumatic acid poison in the system. That is the secret of its wonderful success. Rheumatism simply cannot exist in a person's system if Uric-O is used.

CHAPTER XXVIII.

LILLIAN'S plan of action was arrived at before he reached the square. The facts of the case were simple. Chillicothe had left an incriminating telegram on the bureau in the morning room at Grosvener square. By an unlucky chance Lillian Astripp had been shown up into that room, where she had remained alone until the moment that Eve, either by request or by accident, had found her there. The facts resolved themselves into one question: What use had Lillian made of those solitary moments? Without deviation, Lillian's mind turned toward one answer. Lillian was not the woman to lose an opportunity, whether the space at her command was long or short.

So convinced was he that, reaching Trafalgar square, he stopped and hailed a hansom.

"Cadogan gardens?" he called. "No, 23."

The moments seemed very few, before the cab drew up beside the curb and he caught his second glimpse of the encoined door with its silver fittings. Instantly he pressed the bell the door was opened by Lillian's discreet, deferential manservant.

"Is Lady Astripp at home?" he asked.

The man looked thoughtful. "Her ladyship lunched at home, sir," he began cautiously.

But Loder interrupted him. "Ask her to see me," he said impudently.

The servant expressed no surprise. His only comment was to throw the door wide.

"If you will wait in the white room, sir," he said, "I'll inform her ladyship."

Chillicothe was evidently a frequent and a favored visitor.

In this manner Loder for the second time entered the house so unfamiliar and yet so familiar in all that it suggested. Reaching the drawing room, he had leisure to look about him. It was a beautiful room, large and lofty. Luxury was evident on every hand, but it was not the luxury that palls or offends. Each object was graceful and possessed its own intrinsic value. The atmosphere was so affecting to appeal to him, but he acknowledged the taste and artistic delicacy it conveyed. Almost at the moment of acknowledgment the door opened to admit Lillian.

"I thought it would be you," she said significantly.

Loder came forward. "You expected me?" he said guardedly. A sudden conviction filled him that it was not the evidence of her eyes, but something at once subtler and more definite that prompted her recognition of him.

She smiled. "Why should I expect you? On the contrary, I'm waiting to know why you're here."

He was silent for an instant. Then he answered in her own light tone. "As far as that goes," he said, "let's make it my duty call—having dined with you, I'm an old-fashioned person."

For a full second she surveyed him amusedly. Then at last she spoke. "My dear Jack"—she laid particular stress on the name—"I never imagined you punctilious. I should have thought bohemian would have been more the word."

Loder felt disconcerted and annoyed. Either, like himself, she was fishing for information or she was deliberately playing with him. In his perplexity he glanced across the room toward the fireplace.

Lillian saw the look. "Won't you sit down?" she said, indicating the couch. "I promise not to make you smoke. I should even ask you to take off your gloves."

Loder made no movement. His mind was appallingly upset. It was nearly a fortnight since he had seen Lillian, and in the interval her attitude had changed, and the change puzzled him. It might mean the philosophy of a woman who, knowing herself without adequate weapons, withdrew from a combat that had proved fruitless, or it might imply the merely callid desire to toy with a certainty. He looked quickly at the delicate face, the green eyes somewhat obliquely set, the unrelaxable mouth, and instantly he inclined to the latter theory. The conviction that she possessed the telegram filled him suddenly, and with it came the desire to put his belief to the test—to know beyond question whether her smiling unconcern, meant malice or mere entertainment.

"When you first came into the room," he said quietly, "you said I thought it would be you. Why did you say that?"

Again she smiled—the smile that might be malicious or might be merely amused. "Oh," she answered at last, "I only meant that though I had been told Jack Chillicothe had called me, it wasn't Jack Chillicothe I expected to see."

After her statement there was a pause. Loder's position was difficult. Instinctively convinced that, strong in the possession of her proof, she was enjoying his tabularized discomfort, he yet created the actual evidence that should set his suspicions to rest. Acting upon the desire, he made a new beginning.

"Do you know why I came?" he asked.

Lillian looked up innocently. "It's so hard to be certain of anything in this world," she said. "But one is always at liberty to guess."

Again he was perplexed. Her attitude was not quite the attitude of one who controls the game, and yet—He looked at her with a puzzled scrutiny. Women for him had always spelled the incomprehensible. He was at his best, his strongest, his surest in the presence of men. Feeling his disadvantage, yet determined to gain his end, he made a last attempt.

"How did you amuse yourself at Grosvener square this morning before Eve came to you?" he asked. The effort was awkwardly blunt, but it was direct.

Lillian was buttoning her glove. She did not raise her head as he spoke, but her fingers paused in their task. For a second she remained motionless; then she looked up slowly.

"Oh," she said sweetly, "so I was right in my guess? You did come to find out whether I sat in the morning room with my hands in my lap or wandered about in search of entertainment?"

Loder colored with annoyance and apprehension. Every look, every tone, of Lillian's was calculated to him. No microscope could have revealed more fully to him than did his own eyesight. But it was not the moment for personal antipathies; there were other interests than his own at stake. With new resolution he returned her glance.

"Then I must still ask my first question, Why did you say, 'I thought it would be you'?" His gaze was direct—so direct that it disconcerted her. She laughed a little uneasily.

"Because I knew," she said again, "that you would come. I knew you would come, and I knew you would come, and I knew you would come."

"How did you know?" she asked again.

"Because," she began, then again she laughed. "Because," she added quickly, as if moved by a fresh impulse, "Jack Chillicothe made it very obvious to any one who was in his morning room at 23, Cadogan gardens, that it would be you and not by who would be found filling his place this afternoon. It's all very well to talk about honor, but when one walks into an empty room and sees a telegram as long as a letter open on a bureau—"

But her sentence was never finished. Loder had heard what he came to hear. Any confession she might have to offer was of no moment in his eyes.

"My dear girl," he broke in brusquely, "don't trouble. I should make a most unsatisfactory father confessor."

He spoke quickly, but his eyes were still high, but not of annoyance. His suspense was transformed into unpleasant certainty, but the exchange left him surer of himself. His perplexity had dropped to a quiet sense of self-reliance. His paramount desire was for solitude in which to prepare for the task that lay before him—the most congenial task the world possessed—the unraveling of Chillicothe's tangled skeins. Looking into Lillian's eyes, he smiled.

"Goodbye," he said, holding out his hand. "I think we've finished—for to-day."

She slowly extended her fingers. Her expression and attitude were slightly puzzled—a puzzlement that was either spontaneous or singularly well assumed. As their hands touched she smiled again.

"Will you drop in at the Arcadian to-night?" she asked. "It's the dramatized version of 'Other Men's Shoes.' The temptation to make you see it was too irresistible—as you know."

There was a pause while she waited for his answer, her head inclined to one side, her green eyes gleaming.

Loder, conscious of her regard, hesitated for a moment. Then his face cleared. "Right!" he said slowly. "The Arcadian to-night!"

CHAPTER XXIX.

LILLIAN'S frame of mind as he left Cadogan gardens was peculiar. Once more he was living in the present—the future, exciting, present, and the knowledge braced him. Upon one point his mind was satisfied. Lillian Astripp had found the telegram, and it remained to him to render her due valueless. How he proposed to do this, how he proposed to come off triumphantly in face of such a situation, was a matter that as yet was shapeless in his mind; nevertheless the danger, the sense of impending conflict, had a savor of life after the inaction of the day and night just passed. Chillicothe in his weakness and his entanglement had turned to him, he in his strength and capacity had responded to the appeal.

His step was firm and his bearing assured as he turned into Grosvener square and walked toward the familiar house.

The habit of self-deceit is as insidious and tenacious as any vice. For one moment on the night of his great speech as he leaned out of Chillicothe's carriage and met Chillicothe's eyes Loder had seen himself and under the shock of revelation had taken decisive action. But in the hours subsequent to that action the plausible, inner voice had whispered unconsciously, soothing him by stone the temple of his egotism, until at last when Chillicothe, pale as struck at his own action, had burst into his rooms ready to plead or to coerce he had found no need for either comfort or exhortation. By a power more subtle and effective than any at his command Loder had been prepared for his confession—unconsciously ready with an acquiescence before his appeal had been made. It was the fruit of this preparation, the inevitable outcome of it, that strengthened his step and steadied his hand as he mounted the steps and opened the hall door of Chillicothe's house on that eventful afternoon.

The dignity, the air of quiet solidity, impressed him as it never had before. As he crossed the large hall and ascended the stairs—the same stairs that he had passed down almost as an outcast so many hours before. He was filled with the sense of things regained. Belief in his own star lifted him, as it had done a hundred times before in these same surroundings.

He quickened his steps as the sensation came to him. Then, reaching the head of the stairs, he turned directly toward Eve's sitting room and, gaining the door, knocked.

The strength of his eagerness, the quick beating of his pulse as he waited for a response, the pride that his passion, however strong, would never again conquer as it had done two nights ago, and the fact that he had come thus candidly to Eve's room was to his mind a proof that the temptation could be dared. Nevertheless there was something disconcerting to a strong man in this merely physical perturbation, and when Eve's voice came to him, giving permission to enter, he paused for an instant to steady himself. Then, with sudden decision, he opened the door and walked into the room.

The blinds were partly drawn, there was a scent of violets in the air, and a fire glowed warmly in the grate. He noted these things carefully, telling himself that a man should always be alertly sensible of his surroundings. Then all at once the mere understanding of details suddenly gave way. He forgot everything but the one circumstance that Eve was standing in the window, her back to the light, her face toward him.

With his pulses beating faster and an uneasy sensation in his brain, he moved forward, holding out his hand.

"Eve!" he said below his breath.

But Eve remained motionless. As he came into the room she had glanced at him—a glance of quick searching question, then with equal suddenness she had averted her eyes. As he drew close to her now she remained unmoving.

"Eve!" he said again. "I wanted to see you—I wanted to explain about yesterday and about this morning."

He paused, suddenly disturbed. The full remembrance of the "accuse" in his brougham had surged up at sight of her—had risen a fierce, unquenchable recollection. "Eve!" he began again in a new, abrupt tone.

And then it was that Eve showed herself in a fresh light. From his entrance into the room she had stayed motionless, save for her first glance of acute inquiry, but now her demeanor changed. For almost the first time in Loder's knowledge of her the vitality and force that he had vaguely apprehended below her quiet, serene exterior sprang up like a flame within whose radiance things are illuminated. With a quick gesture, she turned toward him, her warm color deepening, her eyes suddenly alight.

"I understand," she said—"I understand. Don't try to explain. Can't you see that it's enough to see you as you are?"

Loder was surprised. Remembering their last passionate scene and the damper Chillicothe's subsequent presence must inevitably have cast upon it, he had expected to be doubtfully received, but the reality of the reception left him bewildered. Eve's manner was not that of the ill-used wife. Its reverence, its note of desire and deprecation, were more suggestive of his own ardent seeking of the present as distinct and longer she searched for the violets, then as he bent to assist her she stood up quickly and laughed—a short, embarrassed laugh.

"How absurd and nervous I am!" she exclaimed. "Like a schoolgirl instead of a woman of twenty-four. You must help me to be sensible." Her cheeks still burned, her manner was still excited, like one who holds an emotion or an impulse at bay.

Loder looked at her uncertainly. "Eve!" he began afresh with his odd, characteristic perseverance, but she instantly checked him. "There was a faint suggestion of fear, in her protest."

"Don't!" she said. "Don't! I don't want explanations. I want to—to enjoy the moment, that's all. Just enjoy it, analyzed or unanalyzed as you wish. Can't you understand? Can't you see that I'm wonderfully, terribly happy to—to have you—as you are!" Again her voice broke—a break that might have been a laugh or a sob.

The sound was an emotional cry, as much a sound invariably as it arrested and steadied her. For a moment she stood absolutely still, then with something very closely resembling her old repose of manner she stooped again and quietly picked up the flowers still lying at her feet.

"Now," she said quietly, "I must say what I've wanted to say all along. How does it feel to be a great man?" Her manner was controlled, she looked at him evenly and directly; save for the faint vibration in her voice there was nothing to indicate the tumult of a moment ago.

But Loder was still uncertain. He caught her hand, his eyes searching hers.

"But Eve!" he began.

Then Eve played the last card in her mysterious game. Laughing quickly and nervously, she freed her hand and laid it over his mouth.

"No!" she said. "Not one word! All this past fortnight has belonged to you; now it's my turn. Today is mine."

[We resume.]

"I think," she said, "that the public would like to know how you managed to live to such a great age."

"By perseverance," replied the centenarian. "I just kept on living."

Danderine

GREW MISS LEWIS' HAIR

AND WE CAN

PROVE IT

The Great Danderine Never Fails to Produce the Desired Results

MISS Lewis' hair was very thin and it was less than two feet in length when she began using Danderine. She says her hair and scalp are now fairly teeming with new life and vigor.

That's the main secret of this great remedy's success as a hair grower. It enlivens, invigorates and fairly electrifies the hair glands and tissues of the scalp, causing unusual and unheard-of activity on the part of these most important organs, resulting in a strenuous and continuous growth of the hair.

The following is a reproduction of Miss Lewis' last letter:

January 3, 1905.
Dear Doctor Knowlton:—
You know I told you in my first letter that my hair would not reach much below my shoulders, and that all of it together only made one tiny braid.
I am sending you my photograph, which I had taken at Stevens Bros. It tells the whole story better than I can tell it.
Everybody I know is using Danderine, so you see I am doing something to show my appreciation.
Sincerely yours, (Miss) EVA LEWIS.

Danderine makes the scalp healthy and fertile and keeps it so. It is the greatest scalp fertilizer and therefore the greatest hair-producing remedy the world has ever known. It is a natural food and a wholesome medicine for both the hair and scalp. Even a 25c bottle of it will put more genuine life in your hair than a gallon of any other hair tonic ever made. It shows results from the very start.

NOW at all druggists in three sizes. 25 cents, 50 cents and $1. per bottle.

FREE. To show how quickly Danderine acts we will send a large sample free by return mail to any one who sends this advertisement to the Kew-Forest Danderine Co., Chicago, with their name and address and 10 cents in silver or stamps to pay postage.

Women Who Wear Well.

It is astonishing how great a change a few years of married life often make in the appearance and disposition of many women. The freshness, the charm, the brilliancy vanish like the bloom from a peach which is rudely handled. The reason is only a dim shadow, a faint echo of the charming maiden. There are two reasons for this change, ignorance and neglect. Few young women appreciate the shock to the system through the change which comes with marriage and motherhood. Many neglect to deal with the unpleasant pelvic drains and weaknesses which too often come with marriage and motherhood, not understanding that this secret drain is rubbing the check of its freshness and the form of its fairness.

As surely as the general health suffers when there is derangement of the health of the delicate feminine organs, so surely when these organs are established in health the face and form at once witness to the fact in renewed comeliness. Nearly a million women have found health and happiness in the use of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It makes weak women strong and sick women well. Ingredients on label—contains no alcohol or harmful habit-forming drugs. Made wholly of those native, American, medicinal roots most highly recommended by leading medical authorities of all the several schools of practice for the cure of women's peculiar ailments.

For nursing mothers or for those broken-down in health by too frequent bearing of children, this is the expected mother, to prepare the system for the coming of baby and making the advent easy and pleasant. It is a most invigorating tonic and strengthening nervine, nicely adapted to woman's delicate system by a free of charge. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute, Buffalo, N. Y.

GIRARD'S PLATFORM.

Dave Running for Democratic Nomination for Town Council in Fourth.

HIS PROMISES TO THE VOTERS.

Though He is Up Against a Stiff Proposition He is Going After the Nomination in Characteristic Energetic Fashion and Hopes to Win.

D. F. Girard, the well known contractor, is making an active fight for the Democratic nomination for Town Council in the Fourth Ward, though he realizes he is up against a stiff proposition when he has the Democratic ring against him. F. O. Goodwin is in the same fix. Dave is going about the matter in his characteristic energetic fashion. When he is asked anything he can kick up more interest than any seven men it might also be stated that he can stir up as much trouble for the opposition as the next fellow on most any old line that comes along.

For Council Dave is running on the following frank and solid platform before the Democratic voters of the Fourth Ward tomorrow afternoon, and it is coupled with his big hearted and ruggedly honest personality, will make him many votes.

At the request of a number of friends I have filed a petition as a candidate for the nomination of Councilman from the Fourth Ward of Connelldale borough.

I hope you will look upon my candidacy favorably and assist me in securing the nomination. I assure you that if I am successful I will make every effort to be elected.

My ambition and aim will be to work for the interests of the taxpayers as a whole and to pay particular attention to the needs of the Fourth Ward constituents. My long experience as a contractor I think would be a valuable asset in dealing with the borough before Council and would enable me to determine intelligently what would be for the borough and taxpayers best interests.

If I am unable to see you personally I will be glad to see you at the nomination January 28, 1907, at 10 o'clock, in the light of a verbal solicitation.

Mrs. O'Hara was assisted by Mrs. Mary O'Hara in serving the lunch. Mrs. O'Hara proved herself to be a hostess that knew how to provide a varied program of entertainment for her guests.

MORE BODIES

Are Being Discovered in the Stricken City of Kingston by Reconstruction Gangs.

Publishers Press Telegram

KINGSTON, Jan. 25.—Every hour's work toward restoration of the stricken city brings to light bodies of additional victims. Yesterday 10 mutilated and badly decomposed bodies were recovered and as a reconstruction squad expects to invade the business district today, it is probable that many more will be unearthed.

Reports from outlying districts show that, for the most part, damage was light, except to the city of Kingston and the loss of life outside the city limits is comparatively insignificant.

YOUTH HEARING.

Congressman Cooper and Others Will Have One Before the Rivers and Harbors Committee.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Jan. 25.—Although a few days ago it looked like a hard proposition to get an appropriation for the construction of lock and dam No. 7, on the Ohio river, at this session of Congress, the condition of affairs yesterday did not look so hopeless. Although the bill finished yesterday carries more than $32,000,000 and the Naval Affairs Committee provided for another $10,000,000. Dreadnaught, the understanding became current that Speaker Cannon would not object very strenuously if the Senate added enough to the bill to make the total an even $50,000,000.

Another favorable fact discovered by those who are putting things in shape for a larger allowance for the Ohio is that a resolution offered yesterday by Senator Scott and intended to be adopted by the Committee on Commerce, asking for the Lockwood report, was adopted by the Senate without reference to the Commerce Committee.

The chances are all against any fight being made in the House in behalf of any project not treated as favorable by the committee as the friends would like. The Senate is where the fighting may be expected. The bill will probably be taken up in the House Monday. The report, owing to errors in the printing office in getting out the bill was not made today as expected.

Representatives Cooper, Acheson and Huff today made arrangements to be heard by the Rivers and Harbor Board of the Engineers' Corps in behalf of the survey of the Yough, provided for in the River and Harbor bill. The survey is to be that section between West Newton and Connelldale, the survey between West Newton and McKeesport having been made many years ago. The Congressmen want to tell the engineers about the coal that is to be found in the territory traversed by the Yough.

RAISE THE AGE LIMIT

Pennsylvania Railroad Finds Competent Men Barred From Its Employ

Philadelphia, Jan. 25.—The Pennsylvania railroad has decided to change the age limit at which men may enter the employment of the company from 35 to 40 years and the stockholders will be asked to approve the change at their annual meeting to be held in March.

The age limit at which men can enter the service was fixed when the railroad's pension plan was adopted at which the average age at which men entered the service was found to be 37 years. It was thought a minimum limit of 35 years would afford sufficient margin and permit the retirement of employees after 30 years service at the age of 55. The age limit was soon found to be a mistake and the Boston & Maine, Chicago & Alton and Chicago Milwaukee & St. Paul, all of which had adopted a system like the Pennsylvania, ignored the 35 year provision.

In the west it is said, the Pennsylvania company has had difficulty in securing competent men under the age limit in all branches and in the mechanical departments everywhere on public men have been barred because of it.
